

“Jack has been phenomenal to work with as we have developed our Stage 1 CEO Roundtables. He brings skill sets to the group that create a trusting environment. And he draws our CEOs into sharing common topics. Facilitating these conversations brings a value-add to our CEOs and makes our program successful.”

“Jack is probably the most inspirational and motivational guy I’ve ever known. He brings great resources and visuals, too. The new agents he worked with at State Farm are all very successful and I think a lot of that is because of Jack. A year ago, I worked with him individually and again, he brought great resources. And he knows what kinds of questions to ask to help people examine themselves and their goals. With Jack, it’s like peeling an onion. He knows how to get to the core.”

“Jack is my go-to guy for all things related to using a smart phone for lead generation and conversion. He really understands how to combine traditional sales methods with technology for better results. My favorite thing about Jack, though, is that when I get down in the weeds and start going around in circles, he can get me back on track in just a few minutes.”

“During a seminar Jack did for our office, he taught us to step back and look at a situation and understand where the customer is coming from, before we respond. I have used those skills a lot, even when I’m dealing with other employees or store clerks or even family members.”

"Everybody needs a Jack! Not only is Jack a great coach and mentor but he is also a great friend. Jack's combination of business experience along with his light-hearted sense of humor makes working with him fun and exciting. But don't let his sense of humor fool you. When it's time to get down to business, Jack works with you to build your path to success and then he expects results. It's hard work but in the end, everybody wins."

I wasn’t certain a hearing a business coach speak would make any difference to my work as an engineer, but it didn’t take me long to see that what Jack Klemeyer shared would indeed make an impact on my work – and anyone else’s who listened to him. For days I thought about the insights he shared about working with others and the dynamics of communication. I applied several of the strategies he offered and it helped to move a challenging project ahead faster than expected. I believe that Jack can provide skills and strategies that will help any professional, business owner or employee be a positive influence on the workplace.

On one-sheet:

Seeing Jack Klemeyer in action at the White Board session was impressive. He did an outstanding job of addressing the concerns of the businesses represented. There were several defining moments to the owners in the room. It was great outside the box thinking, which is what is needed in today’s environment! It was motivating and inspiring to see the ideas he shared!

As busy as we all are, I don’t think I could have made a better investment of my time. Your idea to practice before the meeting is a great idea. Feel, Felt, Found will never leave my mind. After 30 years in my practice you have shown me that you can always learn. I also thought Find the Need, Create the Pain and Give Them the Solution was awesome. Am I that different that people don't see the benefits of listening to an expert like you? I would have paid big money for the advice!

Jack's white Board session was fantastic. I walked away with some solid ideas and an action plan. It is a wonderful treat to go to the training where you learn something new that motivates you to take action – and motivates you enough that you actually take the action. If you want a fresh, real perspective on your business and how to make it grow, check out Jack's White Board training.
